Hello,

June 2009

Congratulations to Leslie Vail at ASCI, Inc. for winning the May Typo contest! Each month there will be one intentional typo, and those who report it will be entered into a drawing for a $25 gift card for Amazon*. There might be unintentional typos too, but since you will not know the difference, reporting those will also count!

Features of the Month

Advanced Preactor Integration

The big news this month is the first release of a new product called Advanced Preactor Integration (API).

Preactor is a visual manufacturing scheduling and planning tool, which provides production planners with a drag-and-drop interface to arrange work orders according to capacity. API sends manufacturing schedule information to Preactor, then receives the rescheduled routing sequences and updates the schedule in Dynamics GP Manufacturing.

API is completely dexterity-based, so it is easy to install, configure, and deploy. Its sophisticated query builder tool supports environments with multiple planners, multiple product lines, and/or multiple facilities. API includes a large amount of information that can be relevant to planners, such as Item Master information (including User Defined Fields), and routing notes. An optional Bill of Materials export can be generated, which Preactor uses to sequence related manufacturing orders.

GP PowerPack

New Features this month:

- Shortage Inquiry: during PO Receipts, MO Receipts, and Inventory Adjustments (supply), this new window will show you all transactions in GP that need the new inventory (demand). Sources of demand include Sales Transactions, Manufacturing Orders, and Service Calls.

Random Branch

Participation in the Monthly Typo Contest has been abysmal. Maybe you are busy? Maybe it has been hard to find the typo? Maybe $25 does not sound like much when everybody is talking in trillions? Or, maybe summer has finally arrived and your mind is on other things...like going outside.

This month your summer reading could be on us, and for crying out loud, do not buy another work-related book! The Typo Contest for June has temporarily been converted into a Reply To This Email contest. ☺ Just click the link below, put Typo Contest in the subject, and have a great June!

* This is just for fun. There are all kinds of rules, none of which are published anywhere. We reserve the right to do anything, so don't get too picky about this. Somebody, and not our friends or family, will get an Amazon gift card each month. Actually, if you do win, it doesn't mean you are NOT our friend, just that you were picked at random.
